PEACE JAMBOREE

A new kind of World Peace Conference is assembled in Washington, D. C., this summer . . . a conference including not statesmen nor potentates nor dignitaries, but only boys, some 400 of them representing twenty-four different foreign lands and 25,000 representing the United States of America.

And for ten days they "confer" with the common bond of their "Scout Promise" giving them comparable standards of conduct and thought upon which to build friendships and understanding during the Jamboree on the banks of the Potomac.

These "Good Will Ambassadors" come together prepared to trade and barter, "Swap" and "Change" cherished personal possessions, to learn much about customs of habit and speech and characteristics peculiar to each land, and to firmly establish friendships which will last through life.

Foreign Boy Scout contingents present at the Jamboree are from England, Belgium, The Netherlands, Sweden, Ireland, Scotland, France, Poland, Roumania, Luxemburg, in Europe; Canada, New Foundland, Mexico, Guatemala, Chile, Venezuela, Cuba, Haiti, Bahamas and Columbia from the Americas; Australia; India, Union of South Africa; as well as from the United States Territories of Hawaii, the Canal Zone and Puerto Rico.

When the Jamboree has closed, a group of more than 1,000 American Scouts will repay this "courtesy call" by traveling overseas to take part in the Fifth World Jamboree which will be held in Bloemendaal-Vogelzang, The Netherlands, July 29, to August 13.

World Jamborees are held quadrennially, having previously met in London in 1920, Copenhagen, Denmark, in 1924, Birkenhead, England, in 1928 and Godollo, Hungary, in 1932.

BACK TO THE CITIES

From Hannibal Courier-Post.

A farm population of 31,729,000 persons as of January 1, 1937, was estimated today by the bureau of agricultural economics compared with 31,809,000 on January 1, 1936. The net loss of 80,000 persons represents the first decrease in farm population since 1929.

The bureau reported that 1,166,000 persons left farms last year, and that 719,000 moved to farms from villages, towns and cities. But the net migration off the farms was almost entirely offset by an excess of farm births over deaths: births were estimated at 716,000, deaths at 349,000.

The number of births on farms last year was the smallest, and the number of deaths the largest, in fifteen years of bureau records. The number of persons moving to farms was the second smallest during this period, and the number of persons moving off farms also was the second smallest.

These figures would indicate a decisive back-to-the-city trend of population which may or may not mean increased employment in industrial centers. In ordinary depression times there is a tendency for unemployed persons to turn to the country and rural communities. A true picture of unemployment can be had only through an employment census which the administration has been prone to undertake.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

Oppression, deprivation of human rights, an unquenchable thirst for liberty, untrammelled spirits, sublime courage gave birth one hundred and sixty-one years ago to a new nation. The anniversary of this event is being observed, somewhat thoughtlessly and irrelevantly, we fear, but, nevertheless, with much of that same ardor of so happily characteristic of the nation and its people from the beginning.

In the minds of the thoughtful the occasion gains significance when the great heritage of freedom that has come down from Franklin, Henry, Otis and the rest of the radical thinkers of their day is considered against the background of the dismal European scene.

The trend abroad is toward dictatorship and dictatorship means, as experience during recent years has demonstrated, a complete sacrifice of individual freedom and a submission to the will and the whim of a leader with armies and strong-arm men at his command.

In these times, when the world is filled with unrest, Americans will do well to find a place in their thoughts for the men who gathered at Philadelphia and gave to the world an imperishable document, written for the inspiration and guidance of countless generations.

CHANGING JOBS

In the so-called good old times, people used to work along for years and years under one employer. They took real pride in their jobs, and put enthusiastic effort into them. In these days people usually show energy in their work, but they have too much of a tendency to work awhile in one place and then go somewhere else. In many cities it might be found, for instance, that half the store clerks had changed their place of employment within a year.

Why do people thus change from place to place? Was it ambition that led some to seek positions higher up? Were some or many of them discharged because of poor work? How many were simply restless, dissatisfied with their hours of labor or pay, and thought they could do better elsewhere?

Whatever the motive for these changes, they tend to disorganize business, and make the processes of industry cost more. Employers constantly spend time breaking in new help. Restless people learn a little of one job, then they go elsewhere and learn a little of that. At the end of a period of years, they have made no progress toward attaining competence in any one occupation.

We need more stickers, people who will throw themselves into their tasks with enthusiasm, make a determined effort to learn everything that is to know about that trade. Workers of that kind are eagerly desired in whatever occupation they have acquired experience.

CHAPTER 44

JUST AS Jacqueline felt that she could not draw another breath when Joplin's huge hands began to squeeze her throat, the pressure was relaxed and she sank into a limp heap on the floor.

"That's what you'll get—see?" came Joplin's voice.

Jacqueline attempted no reply, and after a moment the man went on.

"Listen," he said. "That's what you'll get an' then you'll go overboard. Twenty-five hundred dollars I'll get for doing it. Get me?"

He stirred her with his foot. "Get me?" he repeated. "That's the offer the gentleman made—$2,500 to put you out and keep me mouth shut."

Jacqueline gazed at him with horrified eyes.

"You were offered $2,500 to—get rid of me?"

"Ah."

"By Colonel Lutman?"

"No names," said Joplin. "Inoc, see? Turned it down, I did. Killing ain't my line. Twenty-five dollars a week, I said, an' I'll keep 'er till she pegs out—but no killing. That's me. Gentle, I am."

Jacqueline's fingers touched her throat.

"But no larks—see?" added Joplin. "No hollering. No whistling. No nothing. Twenty-five dollars is $25, and I ain't losing it. Any more larks and I'll . . ."

He raised his hands again and moved them toward her throat. "Get me? And then overboard you go. Twenty-five hundred dollars—see?"

He turned, lumbered to the door, and paused.

"Get me?"

Jacqueline nodded.

"Well, that's 'nuff, then."

The girl climbed back into the bunk, lay down and closed her eyes.

Mrs. Smith was not in the best of moods. To begin with, dawn, when she opened her eyes, greeted her with a reminder that the pleasant future to which her thoughts had lately flown as soon as she awoke in the morning, no longer existed as a possibility.

Jacqueline, with her blunt refusal to marry Jim Asson, had completely shattered all prospect of the comfortable, carefree life to which her mother had been looking forward, and the future now simply would not bear looking into.

Mrs. Smith, with an uneasy feeling that fate was about to deal her another blow, set down the cup of tea and proceeded to investigate the fact that Jacqueline's pajamas were not in their case on the pillow caused her a quick stab of fear and sent her hurrying to the dressing table. And there she received another stab. Brushes, comb and hand mirror were missing. She crossed to the wardrobe and peered inside. Several frocks, she realized, were not there; and when the chest of drawers revealed that most of her daughter's underclothes had disappeared, there seemed to Mrs. Smith to be nothing for it but to believe the incredible. Jacqueline, without a word of explanation or warning, had gone away. But why? And where?

It struck Mrs. Smith with sudden devastating force that Charles Stuckey might well be the cause of all the disasters that had overtaken her since she had so satisfactorily arranged her own and Jacqueline's future. And the more she thought about it, the more feasible that explanation became. Jacqueline obviously liked the man. Even at Cobenzli, when he had worn those posthumous plus fours and that ridiculous hat, she had been far more charming to him than she had ever been to Jim Asson, and it had been quite evident that the Stuckey person had been very much attracted to her. She remembered now that during the journey to England Jacqueline had taken no notice of Jim and had spent most of the time talking to Stuckey.

That morning at the office, too—the way Jacqueline had insisted on speaking to him alone, and the way Stuckey had backed her up. She should have realized then that there was something afoot and have refused to stand any nonsense. They probably hadn't discussed the marriage settlement at all—had just got rid of the others on that pretext so that they could have a little time together and lay their plans.

In moments of crisis Mrs. Smith was rarely at a loss to know what she should do. Long experience of recurrent financial crises in Continental hotels had made her both resolute and quick-witted, and in this crisis she decided instantly what must be done. She must go to Stuckey's office. That was obviously the first step. If he really had married Jacqueline, he would have to listen to what she had to say to him, and answer a few questions. Mrs. Smith felt that as Jacqueline's mother she had a right to know what sort of an income Charles Stuckey made, and what sort of an allowance her daughter was to receive.

Mrs. Smith as a rule could be relied upon to keep her head in an emergency, but in the present one she so far lost her accustomed poise as to forget the depleted state of the family exchequer and traveled to Rotherhithe by taxi. But long before the cab stopped outside the office of Messrs. Stuckey & Stuckey she was quite herself again. As she entered the office and Mr. Bell's nose to attend to her, she was dignity personified and self-possession incarnate.

"Is Mr. Stuckey in?"

"He is, madam," replied Mr. Bell.

"Ah!" said Mrs. Smith, as though the fact of Mr. Stuckey's presence caused her supreme satisfaction. "Then please tell him my good man, that I wish to see him."

"Mr. Stuckey is engaged, madam," began Mr. Bell, but Mrs. Smith cut him short.

"Mr. Stuckey will see me," she said. "Tell him it is Mrs. Smith." Then, as Mr. Bell hesitated, she crossed to the door of Charles' private room and grasped the knob. "There's a taxi waiting at the door," she said. "Please pay the man and dismiss him." And before Mr. Bell had even begun to search his mental archives for some precedent and to consider whether such a payment, if permissible at all, should be made from petty cash or as a loan from his own pocket, Mrs. Smith had opened the door and sailed in.

She found Charles seated at his desk; and beside the desk, without his eyeglass or any trace of his usual genial smile—he was, in fact, scowling and raising his voice as if he were conducting a heated argument as she entered—stood Colonel Lutman. As she came into the room, however, the Colonel suddenly stopped speaking, and smile and monocle slipped into their accustomed places.

"My dear Mrs. Smith," he began, "this is a most unexpected pleasure."

But Mrs. Smith did not so much as glance at him. She planted herself in front of Charles' desk and fixed the solicitor with a disconcerting stare.

"Well, Mr. Stuckey," she said, "I am waiting to hear. Where is Jacqueline?"

Charles gave her a quick glance of surprise.

"We will have no pretense, if you please, Mr. Stuckey. I have a right to know, and I intend to know. What has become of my daughter?"

"Hadin't you better explain, Mrs. Smith?" suggested Charles. "Jacqueline is not here."

"My dear Mr. Stuckey, I hardly expected that she would be. And I can see that she isn't here. I am asking you where she is."

"I'm afraid I can't help you," began Charles, but again she cut him short.

"Oh yes, you can, Mr. Stuckey. I have an intuition that you can tell me all I want to know. Where is Jacqueline?"

"I'm sorry, Mrs. Smith, but I have no idea where Jacqueline is. The last time I saw her was here in this office—when she came to sign the deed."

"Ah!" said Mrs. Smith significantly. "That's what you naturally would say. But it's not the truth, and you'll do no good by telling lies, Mr. Stuckey."

"Really, Mrs. Smith," exclaimed Charles angrily. "I'm not accustomed to being told that I'm telling lies."

Madame Guachalla again pointed at the Japanese Embassy and repeated, "You home."

To the little Japanese lady, there was apparently only one meaning to the remark and gesture. The Bolivian Minister's wife was telling her to go home. So Madame Saito got up, wrapped her cloak about her, and went home.

Perfumed Soap
 Searching about for folk lore, writers on a WPA project in Rhode Island found an ex-slave, who had lived 107 years and was willing to prescribe rules of health.

His name is Henry Johnson, of Burrillville, R. I., and he says: "When you gotta go somewhere, don't walk—ride. Walk moderate and not hustle."

"Eat till you're full, an' never throw the fat away."

"Wash yourself with soap that's got tar in it. One reason people die young is they use perfumed soap to wash with."

Soda Frequently Used
 Inasmuch as the increased amount of stomach juice seems to bear a direct relation to the symptoms, and as hydrochloric acid is a normal constituent of stomach secretion, the logical medical treatment is to neutralize this excessive acid with an alkali. The one most frequently given is bicarbonate of soda, and this accounts for the popularity and the frequency with which you see this of soda bicarbonate in bathroom closets. Another useful drug is bismuth of nitrate, which also has neutralizing qualities.

The diet should be bland, and articles which stimulate the secretion of hydrochloric acid in the stomach should be avoided.

TREATING PAINFUL DYSPEPSIA

There are no more unhappy and pitiful human beings on earth than those whose existences are embittered by failure of circumstances or by mental conflict, but by the internal tortures of dyspepsia. Indeed, such things may go far to produce worldly failure and soul conflicts.

Carlyle complained all his life of a gnawing at his vitals as if an animal were inside him. And undoubtedly this physical discomfort had much to do with his unhappiness, his fundamental pessimism, and the unhappy relations with his wife. Napoleon is said to have lost the Battle of Waterloo because he had an attack of acute indigestion. Certain it is that a few years later he died and a large growth was found in his stomach.

The causes of indigestion are numerous. Disease in parts of the body far removed from the digestive tract may produce various forms of indigestion. Every experienced physician has seen patients with the marks of several surgical operations on the abdomen—operations performed for supposed digestive disease, when the ac-

The DAILY WASHINGTON

MERRY GO ROUND

WASHINGTON — Washington's most fashionable department store had a special sale of men's trousers the other day. The sale was not advertised but was limited to account customers who were notified of the bargain opportunity by mail.

The sale was heavily patronized, swarms of men crowding around the clerks clamoring for their attention. In the midst of one jam a tall, hawk-faced, elderly gentleman suddenly shouted in a stentorian voice:

"Here, young man, pay attention! I want a pair of outing trousers. They must be cheap but of good quality and subdued in color. And mind you, I said they must be cheap."

The bargain seeker was Justice James Clark McReynolds, 75-year-old bachelor member of the Supreme Court.

Taking No Chances
 North Carolina's ebullient Senator Bob Reynolds knows on which side his political bread is buttered.

Asked a friend, "Bob, how are you going to vote on the relief bill—with the President or for the Byrnes amendment requiring cities and States to contribute 40 per cent?"

Replied Reynolds with a broad smile, "You know I always vote with the Administration."

"Oh, yes, that's right," observed the friend, "you do come up for reelection next year."

Note—North Carolina's other Senator, down-voted Josiah Bailey, is the Securities and Exchange

Commission, which pours out scores of orders on new stock issues.

Spiritualism Institute
 Dr. Alexis Carrel, author of "Man the Unknown," has discussed with Commissioner George Henry Payne of the Federal Communications Commission the idea of establishing a research institution for the study of serious spiritualism—such as the beliefs of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Sir Oliver Lodge, etc.

Carrel believes there is something in spiritualism insofar as it relates to certain unexplained actions in man. The proposed organization would be patterned after the Rockefeller Institute for the study of medicine, with which Carrel is associated.

Wrong Sign
 The wife of the Bolivian Minister in Washington would like to find an international language to prevent the sort of blunder she fell into with the wife of the Japanese Ambassador.

Shortly after the beauteous Bolivian, Senora Guachalla, moved into the official residence on Massachusetts Avenue, Madame Saito emerged from the Japanese Embassy, just across the street, and came to call.

Conversation between them proved to be difficult, since Senora Guachalla speaks Spanish and French, but no English, while Madame Saito speaks Japanese and a little English, but no French or Spanish.

The two ladies sat vis-a-vis in the Bolivian parlor, and smiled pleasantly. Finally, fearing that she was not a good hostess, Madame Guachalla resorted to sign language.

She looked out the window and pointed to the Japanese Embassy. "You home," she said, meaning to comment on the neighborliness of the situation.

Madame Saito looked blank.

FOURTEENTH TERM AS FAIR POLICE CHIEF

Coombs W. Higdon, the perennial chief of police for the Missouri State Fair, Ed A. Duensing for many years superintendent of the speed department, and Jack L. Jolly, chief clerk to the chief of police, have been named again to those respective positions during the 1937 state fair.

"Chief Higdon" as he is known to nearly every peace officer in the state, has served under five administrations and this year will make his fourteenth term at the fair grounds. Since taking over the position he has organized the state fair police into a very successful functioning unit of the fair association.

According to state fair records, this is the longest term any one person has served as a State Fair Chief of Police, including every fair in the United States.

Mr. Higdon was recently elected to his fourth term as field secretary of the association for Sheriffs and Chiefs of Police in the state of Missouri. Through this connection he has become acquainted with every sheriff and chief of police in the state and already has requested from each two of their best uniformed police officers to be members of the state fair police during this year's fair.

Mr. Higdon resides at Richmond, Mo., and is a former sheriff of Ray county. He is a Kentucky born Democrat, but has been a resident of Missouri since he was four months old.

Mr. Duensing although a Republican, has likewise a record of service to the Missouri State Fair, having served in the capacity of superintendent of the speed department for many years.

"Brass Tacks" on the Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Isaiah 65:24—"Before they call, I will answer, and while they are yet speaking, I will hear."

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 4, the first in a three months' course on "God in the Making of a Nation," is Exodus 1:1-22; 2:23-25, the Golden Text being Isaiah 65:24. "Before they call, I will answer, and while they are yet speaking, I will hear." Since this quarter's studies are chiefly in the Book of Exodus we quote here the chapter covering this book in the author's Bible Studies, "The Gist of the Bible Book by Book," published by Dr. Alvin E. Bell, Toledo, O.)

The message of Exodus is evident in its name. It relates the "Going out" of a nation of slaves from the land of Egypt, where they and their ancestors had been in bondage for more than four centuries. As Genesis ended with the picture of Joseph's coffin in Egypt, Exodus relates the national history incident to carry that coffin back to the land of Joseph's fathers. Exodus differs from Genesis in that its message concerns a nation rather than outstanding individuals.

TIP OF A DIME BRINGS $10 RETURN

Mrs. Joseph Joffe of Yellowstone National Park, formerly Miss Aleda Lange of Sedalia, daughter of Mrs. Mary Lange, 506 Wilkerson, is the subject of the following sketch, which appeared in a recent issue of the Livingston, Mont., newspaper:

"How a tip of a dime to a Belgian woman given several years ago returned the donor ten dollars within the past week, is an unusual story, but nevertheless true. The donor was Mrs. Joseph Joffe of Yellowstone National Park and at the time of giving the piece of foreign coin to the Belgian maid Mrs. Joffe was not entirely aware of the true value. She thought she was giving the woman the equivalent of twenty-five cents in American money."

"The return of ten dollars because she gave the tip, has nothing to do with any sacrifice on the part of the Belgian recipient of the foreign money for the ten dollars came from an entirely different source."

"Here is the story:

"Recently the American Legion Legion magazine asked participants in the 1927 Legion national convention and pilgrimage to France, to tell in 250 words or less their greatest thrill of the trip. Prizes were awarded to the winners in amounts from $250 to $10. Mrs. Joffe contributed the details of her embarrassment when after she realized the attendant was making positive gestures that almost demanded a tip, she found instead of giving the woman the equivalent of a quarter she had in fact given her less than a dime—seven cents, as a matter of fact. The service proffered for the small sum, Mrs. Joffe says in the story, was extensive and extended. She recounted to her husband the experience and he told her of the pittance of the tip whereupon she exclaimed, 'I'm glad I didn't give her a whole quarter.'"

"For the story of the incident cleverly told by Mrs. Joffe, she became one of the twenty prize winners and her narrative was printed in the American Legion Magazine for July."

HOLIDAY TRIP ENDS IN DEATH

ROLLA, Mo., July 3.—A holiday trip ended in death for a St. Louis woman today when an automobile overturned on U. S. highway No. 66 near Arlington, Mo.

Mrs. George Davis, 36, St. Louis was trapped in the car and burned to death.

Her husband, George Davis, 36, an employee of the Chevrolet Motor Co., factory in St. Louis, suffered from shock and Miss Alice Flint, 22, Newburg, Mo., a sister of Mrs. Davis, was seriously injured. They were brought to a hospital here. Both were thrown clear of the car when it crashed into a bluff. Davis was driving.

The three were on route to Roaring River, near Springfield, to spend July 4th.

EXPORTS IN MAY EXCEEDED IMPORTS

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The commerce department reported today that May exports gained considerably in May and, for the first time since last November, exceeded imports.

Exports gained from $269,170,000 in April to $288,924,000 in May while imports dropped from $281,666,000 to $278,777,000.

The May figures reversed an unfavorable trade balance which had been causing concern in some quarters because of America's historic position of a larger seller to the world than a buyer.

SUNNYSIDE EXTENSION CLUB

Carl K. Alquist arrived in Sedalia Saturday to spend the Fourth of July with his parents. He is accompanied by Robert Loge also a student in Kansas City.

and made an attempt to grab his hair. Instead I caught his cap and it came off. Bob went under and did not come up."

Bates, badly frightened, hurried to the home of Clarence Crane, farmer who lives just north of the bridge. He asked for a telephone, and Crane, learning what had occurred, offered to accompany him to the Georgetown store, a mile away, operated by Leonard Anderson. Bates called police headquarters, and they in turn called McLaughlin's for a pulmotor.

Highway Patrolman Paul Corl, Patrolmen J. H. Brooks and Herman Fischer, Sheriff W. L. Marlin and Deputy Clyde Coppers were at the scene ten minutes after the call came into police headquarters.

The officers, with Mr. Bates, began searching the water from the bridge back towards the west believing the body might come to the top, and also from the location where Mr. Bates climbed out of the water.

About a half hour later Alderman Frank Hugelmann, Ted Eschbacher, Herbert Bond and Jack Osborne, hearing of the accident drove to the Muddy bridge and met the officers searching for the body. Mr. Bates climbed up the creek bank was found and the searching party congregated there.

It was decided to obtain a row boat to use in grappling in the water. In the meantime Hugelmann and Officer Brooks, "stripped" and went into the water. Hugelmann went in first and began dropping down in the holes and after several attempts touched Mr. Spencer's clothing with his feet, then swam to shallow water.

Officer Brooks went in and upon reaching the place where Mr. Hugelmann had found the body, "dropped" down into the water finding Mr. Spencer's hand, grabbed it and began treading water. Mr. Hugelmann took hold of Brooks' hand and assisted in pulling him to shallow water.

They placed the body upon the bank and those nearby carried it up to a flat place at the top of the bank.

Ralph Baker, of McLaughlin's, who was at the scene ready with the pulmotor made an examination of the body and pronounced him dead, and the use of the pulmotor was useless.

Dr. Gordon Stauffacher, coroner, was notified and went to the scene and after a brief investigation ordered the body removed to the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel. Dr. Stauffacher stated an inquest was not necessary.

News of the drowning spread over the city rapidly, although the hour was late, for "Bob" had many friends. They knew of his pleasure in going frog hunting and could hardly believe it possible he had lost his life in this manner. Close friends of Mrs. Spencer were called and they went to her home to be with her when she received the news.

Mr. Spencer was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Edward Spencer. He was born in the residence in which he resided, at which time it was the old Spencer family home, on July 16, 1890.

He was reared in Sedalia, educated in the schools of this city and graduated from the Sedalia high school, later to attend the University of Missouri at Columbia.

June 19, 1918 he enlisted in the United States Army and was assigned to Company B, 306th Battalion, Heavy Tank Corps, as a private First Class, and sent to Jefferson Barracks. Later he went to Gettysburg, Pa., and on August 13, 1918 sailed for foreign service, landing on August 31 in England.

After training in England for several months he was sent to France and was there one week prior to the signing of the Armistice. He returned to this country and on April 11, 1919 was discharged from the Army at Louisville, Ky.

On April 14, 1919 he was married to Miss Eula Reavis of Sweet Springs, at St. Louis, and they returned to Sedalia and since have made this city their home, residing at the present address.

Mrs. Spencer was a member of the Broadway Presbyterian church. He was a member of the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion.

For twenty-two years Mr. Spencer was associated with the late R. F. Boehme in the operation of the Le Grande garage and recently has been associated with the Phil Russell Inc., Ford Motor dealer in Sedalia, as a salesman.

Surviving Mr. Spencer are his widow of the family home, two sisters Mrs. Helen Fleming, wife of H. Weiler Fleming of Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. Christine Gentry, wife of Lee M. Gentry of Oregon, Ill. Also surviving are two aunts, Mrs. Mattie Clark of South Kentucky avenue, and Mrs. Bessie Clark of Joplin, and an uncle James Spencer of Sedalia.

outcome "of a prolonged period of weak government," he added: "in those troubled waters foreign elements of various kinds have had their share of fishing. It is an intervention has not been on one side alone, and has not been limited to the period after the war."

British nonintervention, Eden continued, "has been most scrupulously observed. Both parties in Spain know it. The whole world knows it."

Both speeches were interpreted as leaving little doubt Britain would maintain a firm stand against yesterday's Italo-German proposals that the nonintervention patrol around Spain be dropped and belligerent rights be granted the warring parties in Spain.

Eden said the British government was disinterested in Spain's form of government "but disinterestedness where British interests are concerned on the land or sea frontiers of Spain or the trade routes that pass by her."

Hope for U. S. Agreement

He coupled his insistence on these two points with marked references to "countries government by dictators" who "supported one side or the other" and to "interventions" who "will not be found to have benefited Spain."

The prime minister also announced the British government "is engaged in conversations with the United States, which we hope eventually may develop into a mutually advantageous trade agreement."

Britain counted on the support of at least twenty European powers in a showdown next week between the conflicting Anglo-French and Italo-German ideas as to how to prevent the Spanish war from becoming a general conflict.

The showdown was expected to come in a full meeting of the 27-nations committee for isolating the Spanish war, probably early in the week.

Naval dispositions today were taken to indicate Britain was determined her strength in the Spanish trouble zone should not be lessened. The admiralty announced "routine dispatch" of three battleships to Spanish waters.

Exodus From Capital

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(P)—Most of the cabinet along with thousands of government employees deserted Washington today for the Fourth of July week end holidays. Congress was in recess. Government departments closed. President Roosevelt was in Hyde Park, New York. The proposed supreme court compromise rested in a senate pigeon hole; testimony of who shot whom and why was laid aside by the civil liberties senate committee. Nor was who paid less taxes than the government would have liked the principal question of a joint tax inquiry committee. Those questions, along with wage and hour legislation, had been shoved aside for a week-end of rest and sport.

Many members of congress had joined cabinet officers and government clerks in the exodus from the capital. Four members of the cabinet had followed the example of Mr. Roosevelt. Others had swapped work at the office for rest at home.

Secretary Woodring said he would take advantage of the holiday to visit with some Kansas friends here for the Boy Scout jamboree and also might visit the scout camp.

The capital's principal Independence Day observance will be a display of fireworks by the park service Monday night at Potomac park.

Mr. Philippi recently took the position as general manager of the Thompson Chevrolet Motor Co. in Sedalia succeeding Ray W. Hatfield, resigned, who has accepted a position with Tom Herrick in the Sinclair Oil business in this section.

Mr. Philippi prior to coming to Sedalia was connected with the Eaton Products of Kansas City.

Storms Hamper
Searchers for Amelia
Earhart and Noonan

Itasca's efforts would leave only the relatively slow navy tug Swan available for use in the Howland area. The Swan was heading toward Howland after having stood by at the halfway point between Islet and Honolulu.

Some search authorities reported receiving word that the British radio station in the Nuru Islands picked up a message on the Earhart wavelength saying "a ship in sight ahead."

"Voice Like Miss Earhart's"

The purported message was untimed and part of it was unintelligible but the British station was quoted as saying the voice heard was similar to Miss Earhart's.

This station is on almost a direct line with Miss Earhart's flight route and heard her Thursday as she passed within 60 miles of Nuru. The British freighter Myrtlebank arrived at Nuru today but reported no sign of the plane.

The unsuccessful searching plane reported encountering the snow and sleet at high altitude. Snow is unknown at Howland Island, only 50 miles from the equator.

Rescue workers said the sun there would be a great hazard to survival of anyone exposed to its merciless equatorial rays. Reports indicated clear skies and a calm sea in the region of the hunt.

Searchers Unconvinced

Searchers put little faith in numerous reports of amateur radio operators of supposed messages from the Earhart "flying laboratory" and asserted there was no convincing proof that she and Noonan remained alive.

But the radio messages purporting to come from the lost twin-motored plane continued to flash despite official skepticism.

Paul Mantz, Miss Earhart's technical advisor, expressed the conviction that two Los Angeles amateur wireless operators had really picked up a message from the plane and that Miss Earhart and her navigator had reached an atoll in the South Pacific.

Searchers said they had reason to believe the last message from the plane came at 1:45 a. m. today (6:15 a. m. CST) as a series of dashes.

But amateur listeners insisted they had heard reports at 8:42 a. m., 8:55 a. m. and 9 a. m. CST, indicating they were from the plane.

One reported he recognized Miss Earhart's voice saying "KHAQ, SOS, KHAQ, SOS, KHAQ, SOS."

These are the call letters given Miss Earhart for the "just for fun" world flight that came to grief during an attempted 2,570-mile flight yesterday from Lae, New Guinea to Howland Island.

After a 21-hour search of the waters about Howland, the Itasca returned to the island intending to remain there as a base ship for other searching craft. Failure of the flying boat to get through from Howland caused it to resume the hunt.

Requests Hourly Broadcasts

From Oakland Calif., George Palmer Putnam cabled a request to radio station KGU here to broadcast hourly messages to Miss Earhart in efforts to locate his wife and Noonan.

He said he hoped Miss Earhart might be able to pick up the messages and indicate her location and whether she was on an island or atfloat.

He said the Pan-Pacific Press Bureau has computed that Miss Earhart might have drifted back to the original position, when she radioed she was 100 miles from Howland.

Half an hour later she sent an alarming message that she had only half an hour's supply of fuel left and could not make the distance. The bureau figured that with a five-mile an hour drift, Miss Earhart, if afloat, would have drifted back to the spot from which she first broadcast.

Out of Honolulu, the battleship Colorado was ordered by the navy department to steam at full speed, carrying three planes to aid in an extensive hunt.

The aircraft tender Pelican also was pressed into the sea-combing task from the Hawaiian Islands.

Mantz told Putnam he was convinced the Los Angeles radio amateurs had intercepted distress signals from the Earhart plane.

Even more startling, Putnam said, was Mantz' belief that in the "background" of the radio calls could be heard what sounded like the roar of an airplane engine.

Mantz informed Putnam he believed Miss Earhart had brought her big plane down safely on a coral atoll when the gasoline supply ran low and had rigged up an emergency broadcasting set.

The airplane motor in such case would be used to generate power, Mantz explained.

The coast guard cutter Itasca made a fruitless search in the Howland Island vicinity, belching black smoke in the hope of being seen by the fliers.

Alert Eye For Kite

An alert eye was kept by all searchers for an orange kite, which Mantz flew as a distress signal.

One of the host of theories advanced, that the fliers may have landed on Baker Island, a southern neighbor of Howland, was blasted by information that four colonists there are equipped with a radio which could have quickly relayed the information.

Coast guard officers concentrated their search in a hundred-mile area southwest of Howland, saying it was "beyond belief" that the woman flier overshoot the island.

In Washington, Charles Horner, president of the National Aeronautical Association, said he considered the last stages of the flight, begun from Oakland, Calif., May 21 "even more difficult in some ways than the recent non-stop polar flight of the Russian aviators." Her route was via Miami, Fla., San Juan, Puerto Rico, Dutch Guiana, Natal, Brazil, St. Louis, Senegal, Khartoum, Rangoon, Darwin, Australia and Lae.

Ruth Elder Confident

Ruth Elder, who with George W. Haldeman was rescued in rough Atlantic waters after their plane was forced down in 1927, expressed confidence in Miss Earhart's ultimate rescue.

"I know exactly how she feels," said Miss Elder, "floating around some place in the Pacific, the sun beating down on her as she prays that a ship is somewhere nearby."

Sailing ships ply about 300 miles west of Howland, a treacherous sandspit on a direct air line from Honolulu to Australia. The island, 1,500 miles from Honolulu, is only a mile and a half long.

Mrs. Noonan, wife of the navigator, collapsed at Oakland and was placed under the care of a physician. Previously she expressed hope the Itasca would find her husband and Miss Earhart.

"I'm sure Amelia will come through," said Mrs. E. S. Earhart, Amelia's grandmother, at Los Angeles.

Experts agreed that Miss Earhart's plane, with its huge empty gasoline tanks to add to potential buoyancy, would float for some time but emphasized that the length of its endurance would depend upon its condition when it came down, the character of the ocean surface and the seamanship of the fliers involved. The extent of their food and water supply was not known here.

Snow Not Impossible

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(P)—The weather bureau said tonight it would be "unusual but not impossible" for planes flying at high altitude near the equator to encounter snow and sleet.

(Reports from Honolulu said a naval plane had turned back before reaching the scene of the Earhart search after sighting snow.)

Snow or sleet could result, the bureau said, if a mass of moving cold air collided with warm, moist air, but would not be likely except at a high altitude.

ters of Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco declared the last Basque resistance had been crushed and the defense of Santander city—29 miles west of Santona—had been entrusted largely to Asturian miners who go into battle throwing sticks of dynamite.

(It asserted the Basques can be eliminated from the government strength "since the major part of them have surrendered." A battalion of 400 men, said to be one of the last Basque fighting units, was said to have yielded. Insurgent officers said at least 15,000 government soldiers have surrendered in northern Spain in the last three weeks.

(Twelve thousand Asturians were reported to have been rushed to Santander, last important objective of the insurgents' northern drive. Anarchists were said to dominate the city and to have forced the agent of the Madrid-Valencia government to flee.)

At Valencia the defense ministry announced a government airfield bombed the insurgent general staff headquarters in Salamanca, striking their objective with several missiles.

Twenty insurgent pursuit planes took off to attack the raiders, it said, but failed to shoot down any.

Federal official news agency, earlier reported seven insurgent air planes bombed Santander.

On the Madrid front government soldiers dynamited their way further into suburban Carabanchel, driving insurgents from two streets and taking over 200 small houses.

The dynamiting sadly permitted the capital's defenders to advance foot by foot and put them in control of most of Carabanchel, on the southern edge of the city.

North of Guadalajara, government forces reported a tightening-out movement in their lines and the capture of a strategically important village.

ALL-STAR GAME STIRS UP A FUSS IN BIG LEAGUES

Controversy Over Method of Selecting Players Rivals Tilt Itself

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—There hasn't been as much fuss since Fred Merkle forgot to touch second, as big league baseball has stirred up with Wednesday's fifth presentation of its five-star special, the all-star game.

They took the player selection away from the fans, and since then the howls have been pouring in faster than Van Mungo's fireball.

So far, this controversy has aroused as much interest as the game itself, particularly with several managers squawking over the absence of one or another of their deserving players from the 23-man squad selected for each league by last year's pennant winning pilots, Joe McCarthy and Bill Terry.

Nevertheless, all signs point to the expected clash of power and pitching between the American League's lustrous bats, on the one side, and the screwball, fireball and fochall flinging of Messrs. Carl Hubbell, Mungo and Dizzy Dean, respectively, on the other.

The senior circuit is out for its second straight triumph. The American Leaguers took the first three engagements, from 1933 to '35.

Generally, the lineups of both teams will be packed with all-star "veterans." Two American leaguers (Gehrig and Gehring) and one National (Gaby Hartnett) are serving for the fifth time. Five other Americans and seven Nationals are back for the fourth time.

Here's the way the two teams may take the field, with the yards of all-star service, and all-star batting averages for each man:

Pos.	NATIONALS	Yrs.	AVG.	Pos.	AMERICAN	Yrs.	AVG.
1B	Collins, Cubs	2	.370	1B	Gehrig, Yankees	4	.401
2B	Herman, Cubs	2	.369	2B	Gehring, Tigers	4	.350
SS	Jurgens, Cubs	6	.350	SS	Cronin, Red Sox	3	.250
3B	Vaughan, Pirates	2	.260	3B	Riffe, Yankees	1	.000
CF	Ott, Giants	3	.343	CF	Dumagala, Yankees	1	.000
LF	Medwick, Cardinals	3	.322	LF	Averill, Indians	3	.375
RF	Wagner, Pirates	4	.343	RF	Walker, Tigers	2	.000
C	Hartnett, Cubs	5	.343	C	Dickey, Yankees	2	.250
P	Mungo, Dodgers	1	.000	P	Gomez, Yankees	3	.000

(Nationals may use the Giants' second base combination of Dick Bartell and Burgess Whitehead at start, and may start Pepper Martin in outfield.)

(Americans may start Rick Ferrell as catcher, particularly if brother Wes Ferrell is named as starting pitcher.)

Vanderbilt Cup Race Is Delayed Until Monday Because of Wet Track

WESTBURY, N. Y., July 3.—(AP)—A brief but steady drizzle that left the trap-track too treacherous for high-speed driving, forced postponement of today's scheduled Vanderbilt cup auto race until 11 a. m. (C. S. T.) Monday.

Thirty of the world's greatest drivers, representing the United States, Germany, Italy, England and Norway, were lined up and ready to go when the rainfall descended unexpectedly. After a 37-minute wait officials announced the postponement.

The crowd, estimated at 40,000 to 45,000, was extremely disappointing. Bernd Rosemeyer of Germany, 1936 European champion, was held as the strong favorite at 2 to 1. Second was Rudolf Caracciola, another German star, who was 3 to 1. Rudolf led the qualifying trials, averaging 55.550 miles per hour, as against an average of 54.370 by Rosemeyer.

Rex Mays of California stacked up as America's chief hope. Mays finished third in the qualifying trials for the 300-mile race over the 3 1/4-mile track.

Tazio Nuvolari, the "mad man from Modena," winner of last year's inaugural, was rated as a 6 to 1 shot.

Louis and Baer May Be Matched in Chicago Bout

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 3.—(AP)—Joe Foley of Chicago, co-promoter of the Louis-Bradock heavyweight championship fight, said here today he was considering matching Champion Joe Louis and former champion Max Baer in Chicago this fall. The match would be conditional, though, he said, on whether either former champion Max Schmeling of Germany or Tommy Farr, the English champion, were matched with Louis for bouts in the United States.

TOLMICH STEALS SPOTLIGHT IN A. A. U. TRACK MEET BY DEFEATING TOWNS; CUNNINGHAM WINS

MILWAUKEE, July 3.—(AP)—Allan Tolmich, versatile youngster from Detroit's Wayne University, whipped a world champion and came right back to set a meet record to outshine a field of brilliant stars in the Golden Jubilee renewal of the amateur athletic union's senior track and field championship meet.

Glenn Cunningham retained his 1,500 meters title with the help of a heartbreaking accident to Archie San Romani; four far westerners surpassed the accepted world pole vault record, and six great Negro high jumpers dominated their field but it was Tolmich who outsparked them all today.

Tolmich it was who whipped Georgia's famous Forrest (Spec) Towns, world record-holder, Olympic champion, and defending title-holder and regarded as unbeatable in the high hurdles, over the 110-meter route in 14.5 seconds against a brisk breeze. And it was Tolmich who came back an hour later to skim over 200 meters of low hurdles in the meet record time of 23.3 seconds.

All this was on top of a triumph in the junior 100 meters championship last night.

Cunningham's title - retaining achievement in the 1,500 meters lacked considerable of satisfying the great Kansan.

The race, heralded as another great struggle between Cunningham and his little Kansas rival, was right in the middle of being just that when San Romani stepped on the track curbing and sprawled on the cinders about 200 meters from home. The two Kansans, with San Romani a step in front, had shaken off the rest of the field, and the issue was still wide open when Archie went down.

As he fell, San Romani's spikes raked Cunningham's left leg, but the veteran kept right on going to whip Jimmy Smith, of Indiana, about 22 yards in 3 minutes, 51.8 seconds, Wisconsin's Charles Fenske finished third, and San Romani got back on his feet and finished with a brilliant sprint to salvage fourth place ahead of Gene Venzke.

Bill Seton of Southern California's "heavenly twin" combination, hoisted himself over the bar in the pole vault at 14 feet, 7 1/2 inches, bettering the accepted world record of 14 feet, 6 1/2 inches. However, he won because he required fewer efforts to get over the top height, for Cornelius Warmerdam, of Fresno, Cal., State College and the Olympic Club of San Francisco; Earle Meadows, the other "heavenly twin," and Varoff all cleared the same height.

Dave Albritton, one-half of Ohio State University's great high-jumping pair, dethroned Cornelius Johnson, of the Southern California Sportsmen's Association, to head an all-Negro parade to honors. Albritton's leap of 6 feet, 8 1/2 inches tied the meet record. Johnson tied with Mel Walker, the other Ohio State star, at 6 feet, 6 1/2 inches, and Gil Cruter, of Colorado, Al Threadgill, of Temple, and Eddie Burke, of Marquette, finished in a standoff for fourth place at 6 feet, 4 1/2 inches.

HAAS DEFEATS LESLIE IN INTERCOLLEGIATE GOLF FINALS 5 AND 3

OAKMONT, Pa., July 3.—Tall and handsome Freddie Haas of Louisiana State, wound up three spectacular years of university competition today by whipping his teammate, Paul Leslie, for the national intercollegiate golf championship. The score was 5 and 3.

As a sophomore Haas, son of a New Orleans professional, barged into the finals before he was stopped. A year ago he was medalist, and lost to Leslie in the late rounds. Today, after it seemed several times that he was a goner, Freddie produced a great rally in the afternoon to win.

Just as in the semi-finals, he was down after the first round, and similarly he accelerated his pace in the third-quarter route to shake off his deficit and go definitely ahead for good.

Denny Shute in far-away England, deserves at least an assist for Freddie's victory, for Haas carried in his pocket today the same rabbit's foot that rode with Shute a month ago as he won the professional championship.

Some of the sweetness of triumph was missing for Freddie, however, as he accepted the trophy tonight. In winning, he had to defeat perhaps his best friend, Paul Leslie, a 21-year-old Jefferson City, Mo., youngster. He was persuaded by Haas to go to the Baton Rouge school and is a fraternity brother and a former roommate.

But today was Freddie's last opportunity and, as Paul explained, "I've got another year."

His victory today probably gives Haas, a 6-foot 3 inch string bean, more titles than any other American amateur, for a fortnight ago he won the southern championship and he also holds the Canadian amateur.

GULDAHL AND COTTON ARE JOINT FAVORITES IN THE BRITISH OPEN

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, July 3.—(AP)—The American open champion, Ralph Guldahl, revelling in another miraculous putting streak, and Henry Cotton tonight were established joint favorites for the British open golf tournament starting Monday.

Canny Scotchmen, watching the big, care-free Texan's play hastened to cut his odds from 10 to 1 to 7 to 1 alongside "Hilarious Henry," whom they concede is good "even if he is an Englishman."

Back of Guldahl and Cotton in the betting odds at 8 to 1 was Denny Shute who was the last American to win the title—in 1923.

Alf Puddham, the defending champion and just about the most formidable player in the field, is quoted at 12 to 1 along with most of the other Ryder cup players including Dave Rees, Gene Sarazen, Henry Picard, Johnny Revolta, Tony Manero, Ed Dudley, Byron Nelson, Richard Burton, King, and Charles Whitcombe.

In all there are 20 Americans still in the field including the British amateur champion, Robert Sweeney, and of course, Walter Hagen, who dropped from 33 to 1 to 25 to 1 in the betting as soon as the boys saw how wehne was playing.

GREYHOUND GOES TO TOWN

America's champion trotter, Greyhound, is pictured in this remarkable head-on photograph with all four feet off the ground. Sep Palin, Indianapolis, is driving the great horse which is matched to meet Muscletone, European champion, during the late summer on one of the American tracks.

TALES IN TIDBITS

BY BILL BRAUCHER
Central Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 3.—An innocent visitor from Australia comes to town, gives his name as Al Blatch, and announces he's lightweight champion of the Antipodes. . . . so what do they do to him? . . . they just give him a ring of Henry Armstrong on the night of July 8 . . . which is hardly a nice way to treat an unsuspecting guest like Al. . . . Consider the racing fortunes of J. Shirley Riley, horseman who claimed the boss Par in a recent race at Aqueduct for $7,000. . . . Par broke down in the race and it was necessary to destroy the runner.

Don't take too seriously the fact that the International Boxing Union has named Max Schmeling world's heavyweight champion. . . . the union is the same organization that decided Pierre Charles was the champion several years ago. . . . Tuffy Griffith, former heavyweight boxer, has a bat store in Chicago. . . . Frey Perry earned $90,000 on that pro tennis tour, against $40,000 for Mister Vines.

I'd feel happier about the chances of the National League all-stars winning from the American Leaguers if I could chase away a mental picture of Joe Cronin coming to bat with the bases full. . . . just a psychic impulse or something, I suppose. . . . Of Fred Fitzsimmons has helped the Dodgers in more ways than pitching. . . . Fred-die knows a lot of baseball. . . . he taught Cookie Lavagetto how to hit behind a runner, that is, how to hit to right field with a man on the path bound for second. . . . in other words, hit where the second baseman ain't. . . . and it helped Lavagetto to snap out of a hitting slump.

Tris Speaker wears a long scar down the side of his face, but he has recovered otherwise from the two-story fall of a couple of months ago. . . . Total value of stakes and purses offered during the Arlington Park meeting is $376,000. . . . You can imagine what strange things are going on in Brooklyn these days when told that Pitcher Fred Frankhouse stole a base the other day, the first one he has copied in ten years.

The Cincinnati Reds have averaged more than 8,000 customers per day for home games this year. . . . This corner will make its usual five cent mind bet on Greyhound when the great American trotter meets Muscletone, Mussolini's gallant charger late this summer. . . . War Admiral is doing nicely, according to Trainer George Conway, and his legs may be in shape by August when it is planned the great three-year-old will run again at Saratoga.

It won't be long until the yearling sales at Saratoga. . . . probably more than 500 colts and fillies will be auctioned. . . . last year 469 yearlings, most of them from Kentucky, were sold for $1,165,575. . . . this year the returns are expected to top $1,500,000. . . . Mrs. Ethel V. Mars is one of the heaviest buyers, bidding the boys up higher than Franklin flew that kite. . . . She spent $131,500 for 16 horses at the sale last year.

DON BUDGE ADDS TO NET GLORY IN WIMBLEDON MEET

Redhead Pairs With Gene Mako and Alice Marble for Doubles Crowns

By The Associated Press.
WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 3.—Don Budge completed the greatest personal triumph in Wimbledon's long history today when, with some lively assistance from his fellow-Californians, Gene Mako and Alice Marble, he added the men's doubles and mixed doubles championships to the singles crown he won yesterday.

The Oakland, Calif., red-head's dominance of the closing day's play overshadowed Dorothy Round's somewhat lack-lustre victory over Jadwiga Jedzejowska of Poland 6-2, 2-6, 7-5, in the women's singles final.

Teamed with Mako, the new king of tennis smashed England's Davis Cup pair, George Patrick Hughes and Clifford Raymond Davys Tuckey, completely out of shape to win the men's doubles crown at 6-0, 6-4, 6-8, 6-1. A little later, Budge partnered Miss Marble, United States women's title-holder, to an easy 6-4, 6-1, triumph over Yvon Petra and Mme. Simone Mathieu of France for the mixed doubles championship.

Budge scaled heights of brilliance rarely seen on the doubles court as he and Mako won the first set of their match against Tuckey and Hughes at love and with the loss of only seven points.

Budge needed hardly any assistance from Mako. It was the same story in the fourth set when his smoking service and bullet-like smashes anywhere inside the service line had the British paralyzed.

Returning to the courts an hour later with Miss Marble, he was in slightly more benevolent mood. He seemed content to let the San Francisco blond earn her share of glory which she did. But whenever the French team looked like they might be tough it was "Ole Massa" Budge who stepped up and calmed them down.

Budge's conquests wrote a new chapter in Wimbledon history for no player ever before has won the three championships open to him. Not since the French automaton, Rene Lacoste, turned the trick in 1925 has an player won both the men's singles and men's doubles crowns in the same year.

The fifth of Wimbledon's championships, the women's doubles, went to Mme. Mathieu and Billie Yorke of England who trounced Mrs. Phyllis Maud King and Joan Pittman of Mudford, 6-3, 6-3. Wayne Sabin, young Hollywood, Calif., player, defeated Uorman G. Farquharson of South Africa 6-2, 0-6, 6-3, in the finals for the consolation singles plate.

RACING ENTRIES FOR FAIR INCREASED

Charles W. Green, secretary of the Missouri State Fair, states that the racing entries for the 1937 exposition, August 21-28, closed Saturday with all harness races filled. The requirements are six horses to enter, four to start.

In the fourteen races there are 172 entries, a larger number of entries than last year. They range from six in the Missouri cup class, which is a 2:18 trot to twenty entries in the 2:24 trout and the 2:24 pace.

The racing program will be printed some time this week.

FANS SHOWER POWELL WITH POP BOTTLES AS YANKS BEAT SENATORS

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 3.—To the accompaniment of a barrage of pop bottles thrown from the left field bleachers at Powell, the New York Yankees nosed out the Washington Senators today 5 to 4 to even the current series.

The pop bottle incident delayed the game several minutes between halves of the ninth inning, after the Yankees had scored the game-winning run. Bleacherites accompanied the throwing with a changed demand to take him from the game. Although a Yankee now, Powell previously performed for the Washingtons until a trade last year.

The incident was finally halted by the decision of the umpires to continue play, and to automatically call a putout on any Washington batter if the fans interfered with Powell's duties.

The pop-bottle tossing highlighted a game which saw DiMaggio clout his 18th homer of the year to take the big league lead, and Lazzari and Dickey hit a round-trip blow apiece. After taking the lead on these blows, the Yanks lost it again when a three-run Washington rally in the eighth knotted the count.

The incident that aroused the fans started when Powell hit a grounder to Lewis in the ninth. First Baseman Kuhel, waiting to take Lewis' throw, got in the way of the fast-moving Powell as he rounded first, and they collided. Kuhel dropping the ball, Powell went to second and scored the winning run on Heffner's single to center.

Booster Softballers Meet Sweet Springs and A's Face Dixels Monday

The Jefferson City Tweedies baseball team will meet the Sedalia Athletics at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Liberty Park in the second meeting between these two teams. The A's won the first by a score of 3 to 1.

Monday the A's will meet the undefeated Dixel Oilers, a team of local youths. It will be Missouri Pacific Day at the park and a large crowd is expected. The Missouri Pacific softball team will meet the Sweet Springs Shamrocks at 1:30 o'clock with the hardball game following immediately. Thomas will be on the mound for the Athletics. The Dixel pitcher has not been announced but "Lefty" Murphy is the likely selection with Weise the catcher.

DEMONSTRATION ON SOIL CONSERVING

Several leaders from Pettis County who are assisting in carrying out a program of controlling soil erosion and maintaining soil fertility in the county, attended a tour on July 1 which included visiting farms in the soil conservation service demonstration area in Johnson county where many soil building practices are being put into effect. The many things which were seen on this tour were the various structures used in gully control, method of constructing and seeding grass waterways, building of terraces, drop inlets, and strip cropping. This work which has been carried on through the soil conservation service in Johnson County shows soil and fertility can be conserved.

These men who attended this tour and others are going to assist in carrying out a soils and crops program in Pettis County this summer. Meetings will be held on farms in each community in the county where the maintaining of soil fer-

A. W. Klemme, extension specialist in soils, will be at this meeting to lead the discussion on problems relating to the maintenance of soil fertility and the controlling of soil erosion.

EXPANSION FOR MILTON COMPANIES

Harry E. Milton, general manager of the Milton Oil Company, in an interview with a Democrat and Capital reporter, Saturday stated that because for the past several years the major portion of the business of the oil company has been centered in and around St. Louis the directors deem it necessary to establish an office in that city.

Under this plan, he said, it will become necessary that a part of the office force now located in Sedalia be transferred to St. Louis where a new office building is now under construction, located at 8500 Clayton Road. This building will be completed about January 1, 1938, at which time the transfer will be made.

Only two of the company officers will move, Harry E. Milton, general manager, and H. M. Fredkin, assistant general manager. The president, E. H. Milton, treasurer, Sam Milton, and secretary, A. S. Wright, will remain with the Sedalia office.

The activities of the Milton Coal and Heating Company are being expanded in Central Missouri territory through the acquisition of additional territory for distribution of stokers and air-conditioning equipment. A new general office and display room for this company is now being erected at Fifth and Osage, which will be modernized in every respect including complete year around air conditioning.

This building will house the Sedalia office of the Milton Oil Company, from which Central Missouri activities will be conducted and all Central Missouri salesmen and supervisors will make this office their headquarters, as well as the Milton Coal and Heating Company who will employ several engineers and salesmen.

Mr. Milton states that he will continue to be active in the civic affairs of Sedalia and the company will continue to do its part in supporting all civic activities.

THAT'S GRATITUDE

The above is the title of an article in June, Plain Talk Magazine, which I quote in part.

"John D. Rockefeller, Sr., is nearing the 100 year mark. something not one man in a million ever attains. The New York Herald Tribune recently revealed the fact that this amazing old man owes much of his health and longevity to the fact that he

Dr. Roy M. Keller has sense enough to be treated by a chiropractor—one Dr. William Jansen, Daytona, Fla. The Tribune article said that Dr. Jansen had been called to the Rockefeller estate at Lakewood, N. J., for a two week professional visit last summer. Mr. Rockefeller's remarkable age is indeed due to a great extent to drugless healing, just as is the health of the editor of PLAIN TALK MAGAZINE and of some millions of American citizens."

Dr. Jansen was Mr. Rockefeller's chiropractor for over seven years and in that time had the pleasure of accepting a three weeks' stay in his home each summer.

The medical doctor who was called in when Mr. Rockefeller, due to his old age showed signs of sinking, was recommended by Dr. Jansen. Regardless of Dr. Jansen's close connection with the family when Mr. Rockefeller died no newspaper mention was made of the name of the chiropractor who had cared for him. When this was noticed by some in the family Dr. Jansen was sent a telegram expressing regret for the error and stated further, "The family joins in sincere appreciation of your wonderful help and splendid services during the years that you have treated the distinguished patient."

Mr. Rockefeller was only one of many in high places who have come to realize the merit of chiropractic and use it.

Dr. Roy M. Keller, 215 W. 3rd Member State Chiropractic Board.

Ethel Armstrong Dies
Ethel Armstrong, colored, about 45 years old, died suddenly at her home, 304 east Pettis street last night. Death was due to a stroke.

Dr. Gordon Stauffacher, coroner, was notified and made an investigation. He declared an inquest was not necessary inasmuch as she had died shortly before the arrival of Dr. A. R. Maddox, who had been called to attend her when she suffered the stroke.

The body was taken to the Ferguson Funeral Home.

Funeral services will be held at the A. M. E. church, by Rev. Van Hoose at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Burial will be in Crown Hill cemetery.

ANY LONGER?

ROOFS CAN "TAKE IT"

They're "Millerized" for longer life.

A Most Important Development in Asphalt Roofing

Asphalt is the very life blood of all asphalt shingles. The more thoroughly and uniformly a piece of roofing felt can be saturated with asphalt, to place in the felt every drop of asphalt possible for the felt to contain and make it stay there—the longer life you put in the roofing.

"Millerizing" does just this as no other process—does it effectively by the process of Super-Spray Saturation, protected by patent number 1,636,750. In "Millerizing" hot asphalt is sprayed on one side of the felt only. It drives through the felt, forcing air and moisture out the other side. It forces asphalt in and through every fibre of the felt. This provides the roofing felt with a reservoir of life-giving asphalt which resists the attacks of weather and time, and results in longer life.

Be sure to get the protection offered by "Millerizing." There is one way to make sure—

You can accept these beautiful trucks—the first completely new Internationals in three years—either on faith, based on International Harvester's 30-year success with trucks, or on a careful study of their modern engineering. Or on both. Come in and examine these trucks in our show room.

Farmers have been busy the past week in the wheat field, and in most cases where a bumper crop was anticipated have met with great disappointment, fields in most cases turning out only half the amount expected, and in a few will hardly pay expenses of cutting, shocking and threshing.

The first truck load of wheat received this year at the Wilford Acker elevator was sent in by Fordice Close last Saturday morning. The grain was grown on the Bagby land near Camp Branch. The grain graded No. 2—or 57 test. It was estimated this field averaged between fifteen and seventeen bushels per acre. A few fields of early wheat will be fair.

The barley this season is already cut and good in most fields. Oats show much promise. The corn is a good stand and while planted late, the fields are full of weeds and with the right amount of moisture should prove a good one for a good corn crop.

WHEAT MAKES GAIN AS CORN REACTS

CHICAGO, July 3.—An authoritative prediction that drought-induced crop failure over a broad acreage in Canada will cut the wheat yield of the dominion's three important producing provinces to the lowest average since 1913 helped lift North American wheat prices sharply today.

July wheat at Winnipeg shot up the five-cents daily limit for the second consecutive session to $1.48 1/2, highest price in several years. Chicago quotations rallied about four cents from early lows, with deferred contracts closing in new high ground for the season.

Chicago wheat closed with net gains of 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents compared with yesterday's finish, after reacting about a cent just before the bell. July was quoted at $1.25 1/2 to $1.25 3/4, September $1.26 1/2 to $1.27 1/4, December $1.28 1/2 to $1.28 3/4; corn was 2 1/2 cents lower to 3 1/2 cent higher, July new $1.25 1/2 to $1.25 3/4, September $1.12 1/2 to $1.12 3/4, December $1.14 to $1.14 1/2, oats 1/2 cent down to 1 1/2 cent up, July 44 1/2 to 44 1/2; rye 1/2 to 1 1/2 cent up, July 91 1/2 to 91 1/2, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents lower.

FROM THE LIBERTY BELL
STILL ECHOES THE NOTE
OF FREEDOM --- RINGING OUT THE CAUSE AND IDEALS OF AMERICAN-ISM

THROUGH the streets they march, triumphant. Men who fought not for battle's sake, but for their own integrity, and their own right as men, to have a homeland where freedom would serve as monarch and idol, ideal and spirit all in one. Young, courageous, undaunted by difficulty, inspired to overcome all obstacles. Upon the memory of these men rests the glory of this nation. And as brilliant as may be our celebrations in their honor, more scintillating is the reading of what they did more awe-inspiring the echoes of the bell they struck.
